The following revisions have been made to the Laurus College Catalog (V4.1 v-2-5-18, effective February 5, 2018):

e) Attendance Policy (Page 47)

~~At Laurus College attendance is a vital aspect of student success. Instructors are required to take attendance during each class session, and Laurus administration reviews attendance records on a weekly basis. All attendance information will be considered part of the student's official school record and is available to Vocational Rehabilitation Counselors for review upon request. Absences with appropriate documentation provided may be considered excused. Excused absences will not lower the attendance element of the course grade. Students who will be absent from class should inform the instructor in advance wherever possible. Students attending school through a third party organization should contact their Vocational Rehabilitation Counselor, as well as their instructor, to inform them of any absence from class. It is the responsibility of the student to make up missed assignments or exams if allowed so by the instructor. Unexcused absences may affect the course grade. The course grade will affect the student's satisfactory academic performance which can affect the student's academic and financial aid standing. The dismissal process will begin if a student has not been in attendance or had academic interaction for fourteen consecutive days.~~

~~Laurus Online students will have access to archived class sessions for review of any missed classes. Viewing of these classes will constitute being in attendance.~~

~~If a student has more than two (2) consecutive unexcused absences, they may be contacted to ensure retention. Laurus College administration will issue warnings to students with excessive absences or tardiness. Laurus College reserves the right to dismiss a student for poor attendance in classes.~~

At Laurus College, attendance is a vital aspect of student success. Instructors are required to take attendance during each class session, and Laurus administration reviews attendance records on a weekly basis.

Students attending via either Distance Education or Hybrid Instruction formats will have access to archived class sessions through the student portal for review of any missed classes. Although viewing the archived (recorded) classes constitutes being in attendance, students are required to attend one live session of their class per week. Failure to attend one live session per week may affect academic evaluation.

Absences with appropriate documentation provided may be considered excused. Excused absences will not lower the attendance element of the course grade. Students who will be absent from class should inform the instructor in advance wherever possible. It is the responsibility of the student to make-up missed assignments or exams if allowed so by the instructor.

issue warnings to students with excessive absences or tardiness. Laurus College reserves the right to dismiss a student for poor attendance in classes.
